LETTER FROM THE PUBLISHER

Summer 2019

Dive into our summer issue of Pilot Point Guide to discover the best in community activities, area benefits, and home town information while learning more about your local businesses. Pilot Point Guide is a free publication mailed to every mailbox in Pilot Point and the surrounding area. With the wider area delivery Pilot Point's premier magazine is estimated to have a readership of 40,000.

Thank you for the overwhelming amount of positive feedback that we received from our inaugural issue of Pilot Point Guide that came out last March. The support and excitement for this publication is thrilling.

We at Pilot Point Guide would also like to encourage our readers to pay extra attention to our locally owned and operated small businesses. It has been found that with an increasingly uniform world, communities that uphold their unique businesses with distinctive character have an economic advantage. Local businesses are also more likely to support your organization, club, church or cause, so it is important that we work as a community to keep them thriving. With that said, we would like to give special thanks to our advertisers, without whom it would be impossible to produce this publication.

It is important that we take the time to acknowledge all of those who instantly recognized the need for this magazine in our community.

Have a safe and happy Independence Day!

We hope your family has a blast,

Blue Collared Hero GLEN TEMPLETON Rollicking in Pilot Point!

By Kerrigan Barry, Publicist

"I'm not sure I chose country music, in a way it kind of chose me" claims blue-collared hero Glen Templeton, who is living proof that fate favors the fearless. Glen Templeton's legacy began to unfold in 2008, when he was hand-picked by the daughters of country music legend Conway Twitty to portray their father in the touring musical tribute to the late icon. They had first heard about Glen through Joni Twitty's husband, John Wesley Ryles. Ryles, a noted studio background vocalist, had worked with Glen on demo projects. With more than 20,000 hopefuls auditioning for the part, Joni Twitty finally found a powerful voice capable of conveying many of the same qualities Conway had.

"One of the biggest thrills of my life was performing the inaugural show of the musical." Explains Templeton. We were still waiting for my wardrobe to be finished for the tour and I actually got to wear some of Conway's old suits. I wore these custom wigs they made for me out in L.A. I was singing his songs and hearing people react to them the way they must have reacted to him. In a way, it was like getting a chance to literally walk in the shoes of one of my musical heroes."

Glen's star-studded debut launched the beginning of an epic journey, catapulting him into the public eye with appearances on CMT, The Grand Ole Opry, The Ryman and more. Sharing stages with the likes of Loretta Lynn, George Jones, Montgomery Gentry, LoCash and countless others.

In his early Nashville Days, he worked the clubs on lower Broadway. At the world famous Tootsie's, it wasn't uncommon for an "A List" star to hop up on the stage to do a few songs with Glen and the band.

After earning a reputation as one of the best singer-songwriters to play the shotgun bars and honkytonks in Nashville, Glen was recruited by Mike Murphy, owner of the Cowboy's Dancehall clubs in Texas. He toured the circuit playing to several thousand people each weekend and for his own shows and the opening act for a number of top names in country music.

Never forgetting his old school country roots, Glen cites the shows he performed on tour with George Jones in early 2009 as some of his favorites. He has also appeared on CMT, The Grand Ole Opry, The Ryman, and a long list of regional performance venues.

Securing a foothold as a performing artist on the country music stage in 2010, Templeton crisscrossed the country playing events such as The AMC's All-Star Jam, Country Jam USA, Cheyenne Frontier Days and numerous state fairs and festivals in his rollicking stage show.

From producers, studio musicians and music industry vets to country radio and its listeners, Glen Templeton has set out to impress and inspire. No bells, no whistles, just straight down the pipe, Glen is genuine in his performance, his studio recordings translate as undeniably and absolute as his live stage shows. Country music may have chosen Glen Templeton, but it won't be long before country music fans all over the country are choosing Glen Templeton's music.

Glen Templeton has amassed an immeasurable number of faithful fans and followers, contributing to millions of streams on Spotify, Apple Music and YouTube, while simultaneously securing #1 spots on the radio charts, including Sirius XM, with good-time anthems like Ball Cap. Fueled by uncompromising tenacity and raw talent, Glen Templeton is touring non-stop, gearing up to release his most anticipated project yet.

Victorian Piano Inaugural Concert

Article and Photos By Sergey Mishenev

Saturday, May 11, there was a full house for the inaugural concert of the Victorian Piano Festival contributing to the Building Maintenance Fund of the Central Christian Church in Pilot Point. Most tickets were already sold online and there were just a few available at the door!

The formidable cause of saving an iconic turn-of-the-century church building in historic Pilot Point, along with Francis Vidil's international reputation rallied an audience from Denton county, Plano, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, etc.

One could sense the enthusiasm in the crowd whose heart appreciated great music when played. The audience was transported to gentler and graceful times on the eve of Mother's Day thanks to this unique Victorian Piano and of course Francis Vidil and his selected repertoire.

Women attendees were given a pink rose to honor their presence.

The Victorian Piano Festival now dares you to rendez-vous Saturday, October 26, 2019 at 7 p.m. for an intriguing Halloween-classics concert. Halloween is one of the preferred holidays of Francis Vidil. He would not miss Halloween in Pilot Point for anything in the world!...So all may costume dress up in a modest and appropriate style to attend. PILOT POINT COMMUNITY LIBRARY

Undergoes Beautification Project

By Wendy Turner

Visitors to the Pilot Point Community Library may have noticed some work being done on the building's exterior the last few weeks as a beautification project has been underway, including the effort to add a completely original wall mural to the building's south wall.

Sponsored by The Friends of the Pilot Point Community Library and both PointBank and Independent Bank from the local area, this unique piece of art has been titled "The Word Machine" and is being done by local artist Justine Wollaston. The story that the mural tells starts by connecting back to the town of Pilot Point as two horses put colorful shapes into a magical machine that turns the shapes into an assortment of letters. Wollaston (who took inspiration from both famous French designer and artist Le Corbusier and the iconic style of American children's book author Dr. Seuss) was able to incorporate the two existing windows and power box on the wall into the mural, helping create a fun and whimsical piece of art that appeals to children and adults alike.

"The staff at the Pilot Point Community Library are very excited that our building is getting such a unique and interesting piece of art," Library Director Wendy Turner said. "Thanks to the support from the Friends (of the Pilot Point Library) and the local banks, the library now has something to catch the eye of people driving or walking by on Grove Street and a fun spot where people can take pictures with the mural as a background."

Additionally, Wollaston will be doing some work around the main entrance of the library, painting the sign letters and many of the wall's protruding bricks with the same earth tone colors as the mural to add a splash of color to the main entrance for the enjoyment of visitors.

"I think the mural will be a landmark for the library because it (the mural) is so active. You'll be able to see it from down the street," said Herschel Bockman, Friends of Library President.

The Friends of the Pilot Point Community Library are members of the community who share a love of reading, a love for the local community, and a strong appreciation for libraries and the services that they provide patrons every day. Founded in 1991, they believe that access to a public library is an essential resource for the residents of Pilot Point and put on numerous fundraising events for the library throughout the year.

Anyone interested in joining the Friends or getting more information can stop by the Pilot Point Community Library at 324 S Washington Street to find out about upcoming fundraising events or the next scheduled meeting of the group.

Lake Ray Roberts Area Rotary Club Sponsors First Annual Community Concert

By Linda Bullwinkle

The Rotary Club is sponsoring the first Annual Family Concert on the Square in Pilot Point featuring the Plano Community Band. “We are so excited to bring this wonderful concert band to Pilot Point,” explained Linda Bullwinkle, president. “Our goal is to host a community event that everyone could enjoy, young and old.”

The Plano Community Band is celebrating their 40th year offering free concerts and performing all over the United States with guest artists, church choirs, and student organizations. The Band is a non-profit, 501(c) (3) organization supported by donations, sponsors and municipal grants. With over 70 members ranging in age from 18 to 80, the Band has focused on musicianship and performance quality, continuing to innovate and entertain audience members.

Lake Ray Roberts Rotary Club serves the Lake Ray Roberts area from Tioga to Aubrey, focused on serving the communities the members live and work in. Under the umbrella of Rotary International, Rotary Clubs focus on service in their communities, regions and abroad. The most well-known project has been to eradicate Polio worldwide, which is very close to being accomplished.

Locally the club’s primary fundraiser is the ‘Show Your Colors’, flag program, putting out United States flags six times a year to celebrate flag holidays for those citizens and businesses that have donated $40.00 per year. The Club offers four scholarships, two for Pilot Point and two for Aubrey Seniors; supports four students to attend the Rotary Leadership Youth Academy; donates to community organizations such as the Shepherd Storehouse; and supports global efforts such as Eradicating Polio and Shelter Boxes, which has been nominated for A Nobel Peace Prize in 2019.

Members are volunteers from the area who meet on Tuesdays for lunch at World Famous Mom’s at noon. Everyone is welcome.

MOVIES IN THE PARK

Come Out and Enjoy the Parks of Pilot Point

Movies in the Park is a free community event and it is off to an excellent start! It is the newest edition to a growing number of community events brought to you by the City of Pilot Point. The City Parks Board worked tirelessly on this development for several months. In May, they showed A Dog's Way Home at Old City Park and on June 28th they will show Captain Marvel at Allen Groff Park. The show starts at dusk and pre movie activities begin at 7:00 p.m.

The City of Pilot Point Parks Board will host several events this summer. The "Movies in the Park" will be held through November at various locations throughout the City. "We wanted to give local families a fun reason to get out and enjoy the city parks." Explained Alice Holloway City Secretary and Parks Board Liaison.

Residents are encouraged to pack up the kids and watch a movie out under the stars! Families are encouraged to bring blankets or low-backed lawn chairs, food from your favorite local restaurant or snacks from home and mosquito spray to enhance their viewing experience. All movies are free and begin at dusk but may be canceled due to weather. Please call City Secretary Alice Holloway at (940) 324-5025 or visit www.cityofpilotpoint.org for more information. The City of Pilot Point Parks Board will also be hosting a "Schools Out Party" in June at the Old City Park. The party will feature music, games, food, and of course special guests.

Community volunteers are always in need. Residents are encouraged to come out and get involved in their community by attending events, volunteering for them, or both!

Some of the reasons to volunteer are:
It only takes a few hours to do a lot of good for Pilot Point.
It's a great opportunity to get to know your neighbors.
It's a free outdoor workout!
It's a learning experience.
It's rewarding.

The goal for these events are to bring the community together and enhance quality of life. The events are to provide meaningful activities for adults and children and give families a reason to get out of the house.

THE HISTORY OF TEXAS MASTER NATURALIST... AND HOW TO JOIN THEM

In June of 1996, it began.

It had become apparent to the San Antonio Parks and Recreation Department and the Department of Texas Parks and Wildlife that a group of volunteers was needed to support their various initiatives. Based on the Master Gardener Program, nineteen volunteers created a new program that focused on nature—the Alamo Area Master Naturalist Chapter. From this small group of volunteers, there grew a program that now is a cooperative effort between Texas Parks and Wildlife and Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service. There are now 48 chapters across Texas, and many other states have used the TMN template to start their own programs.

The mission of the Texas Master Naturalist Program is to “develop a corps of well-informed volunteers who provide education, outreach, and service dedicated to the beneficial management of natural resources and natural areas within our community for the state of Texas.” Our goals are to improve public understanding of natural resource ecology and management by developing a pool of local knowledge about natural resource ecology that can be used to enhance land management and education efforts within local communities.

In the fall of 2012, ten people from Grayson County undertook the required training necessary to become a Texas Master Naturalist. This group, who had a love of all things in nature, formed the Bluestem Chapter of Texas Master Naturalist. Our chapter is now six years old and our membership has grown to almost 50 members.

To become a member, you must undergo 40 hours of training, which is provided by the Chapter. Class sessions include just about every topic pertaining to nature—archaeology, geology, ornithology, entomology, ichthyology, herpetology, mammalogy, and wetland ecology. Other topics include the ecological regions of Texas, ecological concepts, weather and climate, water resources, plants and prairies, and aquatic systems. These classes provide a broad view of what is happening in Texas and then zero in to focus on Grayson County. They are taught by local professors from Austin College, Grayson College and Southeastern Oklahoma State University, and by other qualified experts.

We partner closely with three different entities: Texas AgriLife Extension Service, Hagerman National Wildlife Refuge and Eisenhower State Park. In coordination with AgriLife, BMN presents seminars for public education. Topics have included Wildflowers of the Blackland Prairie, Water Conservation, Global Climate Change, a Prairie and Pollinator Workshop, and a Butterfly Symposium. Our work at Eisenhower State Park includes the restoration of a prairie pocket, as well as helping with programs for children. Most of our work is at Hagerman NWR where we help maintain trails, monitor Monarch butterflies, conduct tram tours for visitors, monitor bluebird nests, lead tours of the Butterfly Garden, perform weekly bird counts, and help guide programs for school-age children.

Since its inception in 1996, the Texas Master Naturalist program has enrolled over 11,700 volunteers, who have donated over 4,000,00 service hours. This group has accumulated 530,581 advanced training hours and 73,000 initial training hours. Their time and effort have been worth over $92,000,000 to the state of Texas.

In the six years since our inception, Bluestem Master Naturalists have contributed 13,500 service hours, 2,500 advanced training hours and 1,700 Service Training hours. Our time and effort have been worth over $310,500 to the state.

If you enjoy nature and would like to help others learn about our earth and why we need to work toward preserving our planet, why you just might be a Master Naturalist! We have our new training program coming up in August. The cost of $100 includes all training classes, the TMN curriculum book and 2019 dues.
